TEEN FICTION And

This brilliantly ironic satire is set in a future world where television and computers are connected directly into people's brains when they are babies. The result is a chillingly recognizable consumer society where empty-headed kids are driven by fashion and shopping and the avid pursuit of silly entertainment – even on trips to Mars and the moon – and by constant customized murmurs in their brains of encouragement to buy, buy, buy.

The Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants

Ann Brashares

TEEN FICTION Bra

TEEN PAPERBACK Bra

Carmen got the jeans at a thrift shop. They didn't look all that great; they were worn, dirty, and speckled with bleach. On the night before she and her friends part for the summer, Carmen decides to toss them. But Tibby says they're great. She'd love to have them. Lena and Bridget also think they're fabulous. Lena decides they should all try them on. Whoever they fit best will get them. Nobody knows why, but the pants fit everyone perfectly. They decide to form a sisterhood and take the vow of The Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants ... the next morning, they say good-bye. And now the journey of the pants – and the most memorable summer of their lives – begins.

Matt Alacran has spent his youth secreted away in a secluded hut, his only knowledge of the world provided by his caregiver Celia and his view out the window on the white ocean of poppies growing all around. Matt is a clone, an outcast hated and feared as a beast by human society. When Matt goes out into the world, he sets into motion a fantastic adventure in a land called Opium, a strip of land between the U.S and a place once called Mexico ruled by El Patron, a 142 year old drug lord.

Breathing Underwater

Alexandra Flinn

TEEN FICTION Fli

Intelligent, popular, handsome, and wealthy, sixteen year old Nick Andreas is pretty much perfect – on the outside, at least. What no one knows – not even his best friend – is the terror that Nick faces every time he is alone with his father. Then he and Caitlin fall in love, and Nick thinks his problems are over. Caitlin is the one person who he can confide in. But when things start to spiral out of control, Nick must face the fact that he's gotten more from his father than green eyes and money.
